Docket F-2009
CL&P Pre-Hearing Interrogatories
Set Two

1. Of the approximately 1,500 MW contemplated from a possible Hydro Quebec project, approximately how many megawatts could potentially be available to Connecticut?
2. The Connecticut Light and Power Company's (CL&P) forecast notes that Connecticut currently has the capability to import 30 percent of its peak load. From a reliability perspective, how much import capacity as a percentage of peak load would be ideal?
3. Does CL&P believe the recent run-up in the price of crude oil could also lead natural gas prices to follow, resulting in potentially higher generation costs and higher electric rates?
